Last updated: 28 June 2021

- Commencing 13 March 2020 and extending until 31 December 2021, temporary MBS telehealth items have been made available to help reduce the risk of community transmission of COVID-19 and provide protection for patients and health care providers.
- The temporary MBS telehealth items are available to specialists, consultant physicians, psychiatrists, paediatricians, geriatricians, public health physicians, neurosurgeons, and anaesthetists.
- A service may only be provided by telehealth where it is safe and clinically appropriate to do so.
- The temporary MBS telehealth items are for out-of-hospital patients.
- All providers are expected to obtain informed financial consent from patients prior to charging private fees for COVID-19 telehealth services.
- The Department continues to review the ongoing role and ensure the sustainability of telehealth post 31 December 2021 in consultation with peak medical professional groups.

What are the changes?

As part of the Australian Government's response to COVID-19, eighty (80) items for specialists, consultant physicians, psychiatrists, geriatricians, paediatricians, public health physicians, neurosurgeons and anaesthetists are available to ensure continued access to essential Medicare rebated consultation services.

The temporary telehealth and telephone items are:

Group A40, sub-groups 4-38:

- 4 items for specialist attendances
- 10 items for consultant physician attendances
- 2 specialist and consultant physician early intervention services
- 4 geriatrician services for assessment and management
- 34 consultant psychiatrist services including consultations, group psychotherapy and interviews
- 6 paediatrician services for early intervention and services for treatment of eating disorders
- 8 services for public health physician attendances
- 10 services for neurosurgeon attendances
- 2 items for anaesthesia attendances

A list of the temporary telehealth items is provided later in this fact sheet.

Who is eligible?

The temporary MBS telehealth items are available to providers of telehealth services for a wide range of consultations. All Medicare eligible Australians can now receive these services.

Bulk billing is at the discretion of all providers, so long as informed financial consent is obtained prior to the provision of the service.

What telehealth options are available?

Videoconference services are the preferred approach for substituting a face-to-face consultation. However, in response to the COVID-19 pandemic, providers will also be able to offer audio-only services via telephone if video is not available. There are separate items available for the audio-only services.

No specific equipment is required to provide Medicare-compliant telehealth services. Practitioners must ensure that their chosen telecommunications solution meets their clinical requirements and satisfies privacy laws. To assist providers with their privacy obligations, a privacy checklist for telehealth services has been made available on MBSOnline. Further information can be found on the Australian Cyber Security Centre website.

Why are the changes being made?

The Government has extended its national COVID-19 emergency health response for a further six months, to 31 December 2021. This will ensure that patients continue to have access to key health initiatives, including Medicare-subsidised telehealth services.

The temporary MBS telehealth items allow people to access essential Medicare funded health services in their homes and reduce their risk of exposure to COVID-19 within the community.

What does this mean for providers?

The temporary MBS telehealth items allow providers to continue to deliver essential health care services to patients within their care.

Providers do not need to be in their regular practice to provide telehealth services. Providers should use their provider number for their primary location and must provide safe services in accordance with normal professional standards.

The telehealth MBS items can substitute for current face-to-face consultations that are available under the MBS when the service/s cannot be provided due to COVID-19 considerations. The telehealth items have the same clinical requirements as the corresponding face-to-face consultation items.

For additional information on the use of telehealth items, please refer to the Provider Frequently Asked Questions document available on MBSOnline.

How will these changes affect patients?

Patients should ask their service providers about their telehealth options, where clinically appropriate.

The MBS specialist and consultant physician telehealth items do not need to be bulk billed, however the provider must ensure informed financial consent is obtained prior to the provision of the service.

A consumer factsheet is available on MBSOnline which provides further information on how these changes will affect patients.

Who was consulted on the changes?

Targeted consultation with stakeholders has informed the temporary MBS telehealth items. Due to the nature of the COVID-19 emergency, it was not reasonably possible to undertake normal, broad consultations prior to implementation.

The extension of the temporary COVID-19 telehealth measures was a recommendation of the Australian Health Protection Principal Committee and has been supported by health experts and key stakeholders within the health sector.

How will the changes be monitored and reviewed?

The Department of Health continues to monitor the use of the temporary MBS telehealth items. Use of the items that does not seem to be in accordance with the relevant Medicare guidelines and legislation will be actioned appropriately.
